Council Reviews Pool Dispute; Appoints New Charter Committee

by Al Skolnik

Appointments, swimming pool renovation, condemnation of city property by State Roads Commission, and initiation of a city-paid fireman occupied the major attention of city council at its regular meeting on Monday, November 4.

In addition to 13 appointments made to the city's permanent advisory groups, the council made nine appointments to the 10-man Charter Review Committee. The second reading and final passage of the resolution setting up this committee was passed by council prior to the appointments after amending the resolution to provide for designation of the chairman by the mayor.

Each councilman was allotted two appointments. Councilman David Champion named Howard Chasnow and Ben Wimberly; Lewis Bernstein named Simon Pristop and Charles Schwan; William Hoff named Allen Douglas and J. Richard Hoffman; Mayor Edgar Smith named Lester Myers and Francis White; and Cliff Simonson named Sam Schwimer with one name forthcoming.

Swimming Pool

Differences of opinion on the swimming pool renovation program received an extensive airing. Simonson introduced the topic by reporting on his conversations with various swimming pool architects and construction companies in the area. Present were James Cosgrove, representing a swimming pool architectural and construction firm, and Robert Scharf, representing Greenhorne & O'Mara the engineering firm which made the survey of the swimming pool, the renovation of which the firm estimated would cost $139,700.

The chief point of contention revolved around the following: Does the kind of planning and work involved in the renovation of the swimming pool call primarily for the services of an engineering firm or an architectural design firm? Greenhorne & O'Mara has never designed or constructed a swimming pool, but Scharf contended that the work is primarily a structural engineering problem rather than one of pool design. In this position, he was supported by the city manager James Giese.

Simonson, taking the other position, contended that the city should take advantage of the know-how and experience of architectural firms that have actually built pools in order to get maximum value for dollar spent. He cited, for example, that these firms generally recommend gunnite in preference to poured concrete for the lining of the pool, and Cosgrove supported this preference, citing tensile strength as well as cost advantages. Greenhorne & O'Mara had recommended poured concrete.

Concrete or Gunnite

Upon further questioning by council, it was revealed that Cosgrove's firm had little experience with poured concrete and that Greenhorne & O'Mara had no experience with gunnite. Scharf stated that either method was satisfactory and suggested that the specifications permit the contractors to submit alternative bids using either gunnite or poured concrete.

The question of whether primarily engineering or design work is involved also impinges on the matter of fees. Greenhorne & O'Mara requested a 9.5 percent fee. Simonson argued that this fee is excessive, since most architectural firms charge 3 1/2 percent for swimming pools. However, Cosgrove admitted that the fee might be somewhat higher in the case of renovation work, of which his firm has had only limited experience. It was also pointed out that the city has already incurred a charge of $3,040.26 for services rendered by Greenhorne & O'Mara, so that savings by switching firms would not be great.

A motion by Simonson that an independent architectural firm review the specifications as finally recommended by Greenhorne & O'Mara and agreed to by council before letting out for bids was defeated 4 to 1.

A public meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 12, with Greenhorne & O'Mara to settle upon the final details for the pool, so that final plans and specifications for contracting out can be prepared.

Condemnation

The States Road Commission has notified the city that it will institute condemnation procedures to secure the 7 1/2 acre property on which the present city warehouse is located if its offer of $90,000 for the acreage is not accepted by council. The SRC wants the property as a site for a district office building to house its engineering staff (no equipment).

Mayor Smith pointed out that the city has already received an offer of $150,000 for the property from a private developer. It was further observed that the city would be faced with the cost of constructing a new warehouse and finding a site — a cost which has been estimated up to $100,000.

Bernstein suggested that answers to the following questions should be obtained: What does the State have to prove in court to secure the property? What criteria did the State use in establishing its price? What alternative sites did the State consider? It was suggested the corner opposite the Greenbelt Junior High School (which Stidham Tire Company wanted) might be a more satisfactory site. The city manager was instructed to consult with the city solicitor.

Paid Fireman

Chief Robert Mogel of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department submitted a plan for a paid fire truck driver to be paid by the city. He noted that it was difficult to find qualified drivers for the fire trucks during daylight hours when most men were employed out of town. This man would also be responsible for maintenance of equipment and for record-keeping.

Mogel suggested that J. Williams, who will no longer be driving the city bus when WMA begins its service, would be qualified for this post. Council decided to place this item on the agenda for next time, but asked whether there would be any problems of line-of-command or supervision.

Other Business

The council agreed to hold special meetings on November 21 and November 25. The first meeting will review the current city budget and the audit report prepared by the firm of Emanuel & Pear. The second will be a public hearing on the recommended community goals prepared by the Advisory Planning Board (a future issue of the News Review will publish this document).

A dedication committee for the new Municipal Building was appointed consisting of former Mayors, former city manager, and all councilmen who have served since 1957. It is expected that the city will occupy the new building shortly after the new year and the dedication ceremonies will take place in the spring.

This will be the 13th one-man show Abramowitz has had in his career as a painter. Others have been held at the Baltimore Museum, the Brooklyn Museum, Howard University, American University and on earlier occasion The Corcoran Gallery.

The artist was born 46 years ago in New York City and studied at the National Academy of Design, the Petit School of Design and George Washington University. Abramowitz has conducted his own art school and taught and lectured extensively at Arts Workshops, Community Centers, Art Leagues and Graduate Schools. His paintings are in many public and private collections including the Phillips Collection and Howard University.

up, but council decided that it would first like to get a report from management as to specific cases where the present ordinance was not effective.

A complaint by a local resident of Halloween vandalism and property damage brought forth the request to the police chief to prepare a report as to extent of relative damage this year and to make recommendations for handling the problem next year. Giese had the impression that vandalism was less than usual this year.

Council Appoints 13 Citizens To City's Advisory Boards

Thirteen appointments to the city's permanent advisory groups were announced at last Monday's city council meeting. Five citizens were named to the 7-man Advisory Planning Board (APB), three to the newly-created Employee Relations Board (ERB), and five to the newly-reconstituted Personnel Advisory Board (PAB). The names are:

Advisory Planning Board

Harvey Geller, 117 Northway
Leo Gerton, 16U Ridge
Edward Wuermser, 16 Greenway
Charles T. McDonald, 28 Woodland
John W. Gibson, 1F Gardenway

Employee Relations Board

Albert Herling, 13M Ridge
John F. Downs, 4D Crescent
Walter G. Mann, 2F Research

Personnel Advisory Board

William E. Rowland, 5 Greenway
Bernard S. Bailey, 53B Crescent
Stephen Polaschik, 12D Ridge
James A. Hanna, 102 Greenhill
Leonard Baron, 19M Ridge

Geller, Gerton and Wuermser were appointed to full three-year terms on the APB; McDonald and Gibson to one-year terms to replace Lewis Bernstein and Cliff Simonson who resigned after their election to council. The five now join Mrs. Velma Chapman and Cyril Kovalchick whose terms run until October 1965. The APB will elect its own chairman at its next meeting.

Members of the ERB serve for three years, with staggered appointments each year. To get the new board started, council elected Herling for a 3-year term, Downs for a 2-year term, and Mann for a one year term. Herling was named by the council as chairman.

In similar fashion, members of the PAB serve for three years with staggered terms. Rowland and Bailey were elected to the 3-year terms, Hanna and Polaschik to the 2-year terms, and Baron to the one-year term. Rowland was named by the council as chairman.

Appointment Procedure

The council expressed appreciation for the number of citizens who offered their services to the city and noted their high caliber and qualifications. In seven meetings, the council interviewed and considered 19 candidates for the APB, 12 candidates for the ERB, and 11 for the PAB.

Councilman Lewis Bernstein, speaking for the council, explained that the council met as a committee of the whole on Sunday, November 3, to consider candidates and make the appointments. The selection of names was made by written ballot with the councilmen agreeing that it would take a majority of four votes to make an appointment.

According to the statements of the individual councilmen, the criteria used in the selection were length of residence in Greenbelt, education, experience, employment, availability of time, analytical qualities, and personal views.

Indian Film at U of Md.

The Newcomers Club of the University of Maryland will meet in the Student Union Auditorium on Monday, November 11 at 8 p.m.

UNICEF & UN DAY Program

One hundred-fifty Greenbelt youngsters collected $341.48 for children of the world in the Trick or Treat for UNICEF, Wednesday, October 30.

Carload lots of four and five children each accompanied by an adult covered the city in a pre-arranged plan that has become a ten year tradition in Greenbelt. The amount collected, though declining slightly from the $368 of last year and the $376 of 1961 is within the same range. Each group picked up supplies and assignments from Rev. Lyle Harper, coordinator, at the Youth Center. When they returned to the Teen Club they counted the money and enjoyed refreshments served by ladies of the Methodist Church. The popular Prince Georgemen entertained with many folk songs that evoked enthusiastic response.

City Notes

The city of Greenbelt will have two school-crossing guards provided by the county. One of the women will be stationed at Southway & Crescent and the other at Northway and Crescent.

Work on the new parking lot behind the Center has been completed as far as planned for this fall — center islands will be constructed later and final coat of asphalt will be laid next spring after the ground has had a chance to settle.

Of the 87 new units just opened at Springhill Lake, 64 were filled over the weekend. The remaining 23 will be filled by November 15. In all 140 new units will be opened and occupied by the end of the year.

The public works dept. installed flood lights in front of the Youth Center — the lights were working Tuesday night.

The Litter-Gitter, leaf collector, is still in operation and will continue until all leaves are collected. Leaves only should be piled within ten feet of the road.

Springhill Lake News

by Marion Weston 474-1076

The Springhill Lake social season got off to a whirling start with their Halloween Party on November 1 at the beautifully designed Community House. Costumes were a requirement for attendance.

This spectacular affair was planned and executed by Ronnie and Lou Gilmore who were dressed as fetching flapper and sheik. The master of ceremonies was East Indian Carl Murr and his Taj Mahal gem Betty. The awards, donated by Sealtest, went to Phyllis and Jerome Rovner for their original costumes of loaded dice, to Bonnie and Lou Marsilio for most attractive artist and his model Liz, and for the funniest team to Barbara and Art Beato impersonating Valachi and one of his victims.

Chris and Larry Lawrence were a most picturesque Cleopatra and Anthony, and Barbara and Freedman Reynolds convincing black-faced tramps. Beachcombers Annette and Albert Luck and pirates Phyllis and Bob Waldrich were very realistic. Helen and William Arnold represented a South Sea island beaut with her sailor boyfriend. Our Mexican beatnik with Pedro were Barbara and Richard Blyberg.

The door prize was won by Frances and Fred Loskill dressed as Charlie Chaplin and the oldest profession. A novel team was Carol and Martin Levy as Pete and Re-Pete. Natalie and Tom Nugent came as Minnie and Mickey Mouse. Turkish Delight and her Eskege (Turkish collector) were Nancy and Joseph Conrad. Al and Louise Skopetz were farmer John and his attractive Toreador. Representative of the Civil War and his sweetheart were Anita and William Davenport. Beau Brummel Donald and his Belle Josephine were an attractive combination. Ruth Cooper represented a dignified Beatnik while Marie Burack was a colorful dancing Gypsy. Cheryl Burak was our disc jockey, and Andrea Spaid was demure in her old fashioned bathing suit.

And of course no Halloween affair is complete without a witch, portrayed by Teresa with James Scullen, her Cassanova. A most bewitching evening was enjoyed by all including Mr. Warren and your reporter and her husband Nat as woodsman and spouse.

LOYAL FRIEND

To the Editor:

I was shocked and saddened to read of the death of Gee Plakos in the last issue of the News Review. In my mind and memory, Gee has long been an institution in Greenbelt, even though he did not live here or work here. But he did shop here, and he did bank here. On Friday nights you would always see him and his wife at the center and pass a cheerful greeting. More than that, he had many, many friends here. Gee had a warm feeling for Greenbelt, too. I wonder how many people know that through his liquor store ads he provided the main financial support for the News Review during some very hard times a few years ago. He didn't have to do this, but he wanted to because he liked this town and he wanted to see the local paper continue to serve the community. In my book, he was a real, public spirited citizen, and many of us will cherish the memory of him with affection and gratitude.

Jones Agency in Washington, D.C. for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, was awarded a Certificate of Proficiency for successful completion of an intensive course in advanced life insurance underwriting. Mr. Garin attended school and accompanying seminars held recently at the Charter House Hotel in Boston, Mass.

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cunningham on the occasion of their marriage. Mrs. Cunningham is the former Mrs. Maxine Grimm, principal of North End School. At Tuesday's PTA meeting the couple was presented with a beautiful silver tray.

Condolences to Frank Lastner on the death of his brother, Charles, in Eau Claire, Michigan.
